DID NOT TRY TO OUST DR. PARSONS

Is Statement of Mayor Black Who Says That he Called Railroad Stations.

WANTED TO SAVE CAR FARE

On Trip to Lafayette is Reason For Trying to Learn Whether Dr.
Parsons Used Mileage.

It is true that Mayor B. A. Black called the L. E. & W., C. H. & D. and Big Four railway stations to learn who their physician here was, but he had another purpose in view, according to his own statement, than to learn whether or not Dr. C. H. Parsons, city councilman, was using mileage on any of the roads. He says that he called to find out whether or not Dr. Parsons was the local physician for any of the roads and if he could use mileage. Mayor Black said that if he did the water and light committee had planned to send the doctor to Lafayette to see about hiring an expert mechanical engineer out of Purdue University to go over the water and light plant and report back the trouble. He said that he felt that the city could save money for car fare if Dr. Parsons could use the mileage. The mayor hastened to declare that he had no intentions of attempting to oust Dr. Parsons from the city council.

Mayor Black stated this morning that he called Dr. Parsons on the morning that he made the calls at the railway stations to suggest the plan to him. He said that the city councilman was not in at the time and for that reason he went ahead and inquired at the stations. He said he learned that Dr. Parsons was physician for one of the railroads and never found out about any of the other cases. The mayor wishes to impress the fact that he had no ulterior motive in the attempt to gain information in regard to the physician's personal affairs other than for the good of the city. He said that if he could save the city the car fare from here to Lafayette, he would gladly do it.

The mayor said that he never entertained such an idea as attempting to throw Dr. Parsons off of the city council. He said if Dr. Parsons is ever off of the council during the four years' term that he was elected for, it will be through no action or word of his. Mayor Black stated that he never gave the legality of the councilman using mileage a moment's thought. He said that he never thought of such a thing and never took the trouble to investigate as to whether or not a city councilman had the right to ride free on a railroad.

On the other hand, Dr. C. H. Parsons was not even acquainted with the fact that the water and light committee intended to hire a mechanical engineer, although he is a member of that committee. He re-

MAY WORK OVER TIME

Rushville Glove Co. Can Not Keep Up With Orders.

The Rushville Glove Company in the basement of the Daily Republican is about the busiest place in the city. They are far behind with their orders and are having trouble in filling them. They will probably work extra time in a few days if they find that they are not able to catch up. The glove company has made remarkable strides in its short existence, having taken on much extra help in the last few months.

members that the council passed a motion to employ such a man and the matter was referred to the committee, but it is not his remembrance that the committee was given power to act, nor is it the way two other members of the council remember it. The contract with an expert engineer to go over the water and light plant, he to receive $500 and an additional five per cent commission on each piece of new machinery installed, was signed up and all arrangements made without the knowledge of Dr. Parsons, who is a member of the committee and who is supposed to take a part in all actions of the committee. He was not informed of the action of the committee and knew nothing of it until the last meeting of the council when the contract was handed to him for his perusal.

SOON WILL BE A DUSTLESS TOWN

Oiling Streets Fast Progressing and is Being Extended Into the Residence District.

7000 GALLONS OF OIL MONDAY

This will soon be a dustless town. The oiling of the streets is progressing fast and before long all of the streets in the business district as well as many of them in the residence district will be completed. C. E. Davis of Connersville has charge of the work and is doing it up in short order and by the latest approved methods. He has already completed seven blocks, mainly in the down town section, and has the contract for twelve more squares. He has a solicitor working over the city who will make an attempt to see everyone and contract for the work. They will try to oil most of the residence district as well as the streets down in the business part of the city. Mr. Davis says that he expects seven thousand gallons of oil here Monday so that he will be prepared to fill all of his contracts.

MINISTER PROVES HE CAN COME BACK

The Rev. S. M. Hawthorne, Who Disappeared From Gwynneville, Returned Home Today.

AIR OF MYSTERY ABOUT AFFAIR

The "Can't Come Back" club has been a very popular one since the Fourth of July encounter at Reno, Nev., but the Rev. S. M. Hawthorne, the former pastor of the Gwynneville Christian church, who suddenly and mysteriously disappeared from his home the fourth of last June, has proven that he is not eligible to membership by the fact that he turned up at his home this morning, just as mysteriously as he disappeared. He gave no reason for his actions today and nothing was given out as to his stay away from home.

It will be remembered that his leaving caused a mild sensation in the little town and there were numerous rumors afloat. It was said that a member of the church board received a letter, which implicated several prominent people, but it was never made public. The only word received from the Rev. Hawthorne was a letter on June 27, in which he stated that he was working on a farm in Carlisle, Minn.

THE WEATHER.

Unsettled weather with thundershowers tonight or Sunday.

START INTEREST IN WHEAT YIELD

One Year's Subscription to the Daily Republican Will be Given to Farmer With Best Average.

MUST BE UP TO THE STANDARD

Six Months' Subscription to Second Best Yield Per Acre—Requirements to Contest.

Owing to the interest in the wheat yields in Rush county, the Daily Republican will attempt to get the majority of yields over the county this season by offering a year's subscription to the Daily Republican to the farmer who has the best yield after fulfilling all of the conditions of the contest, and a six months' subscription to the second best yield. The number of bushels per acre will be published daily in the Republican. Farmers are intensely interested in the result of this year's crop, especially this year as it was thought that the crop would be a failure, due to the damaging weather conditions.

One year's subscription to the Republican will be given to the farmer in Rush county who has the greatest number of bushels from each acre of the crop on his farm, taken as a whole, and a six months' subscription to the second best. The wheat must weigh fifty-eight pounds to the bushel which is the standard for second grade wheat, that is purchased here. Any wheat which weighs a greater number of pounds per bushel will come under the same class and will have the same place in the contest as that which just comes up to the standard.

The conditions of the contest require that the farmer must mail to this office, the number of acres which he has harvested and the mean average in bushels per acre. It is also requested that the approximate date of threshing be given and also the place where the wheat was sold. It is urged that the matter be mailed so that no mistakes will be made. In telephoning there is danger of the wrong figures being taken and an error be made in awarding the prizes.

The interest in wheat yields this year is really greater than it has been in previous years, largely due to the fact that reports have been sent broadcast that the crop would be a failure on account of the bad weather and other things which have combined to make the prospects look bad. Farmers have reported that the black rust and other parasites have been very damaging. In some districts whole fields have been ruined, but that condition seems to be only local.

The first wheat received in this city went far above all expectations. The crop harvested at the county farm is estimated to average about twenty bushels to the acre, which is considered far better than was expected for this year's crop. The quality of the wheat was good as its weight came up to the standard. The harvest is on now in full blast and machines are running all over the county. The threshing was not well under way until the middle of the week, due to the heavy rains previous. Wheat is being hauled into the city from almost every direction.

The crop this year promises to bring about as good a price as it did last year. Last season the new wheat started on the local markets—that is the price paid at the elevator—at one dollar per bushel. It started this year at the same price. The price has now risen and the local elevators paid yesterday and today $1.02 per bushel.

BELIEVED WORK WILL START SOON

Squad of Men and Horses Sent by Adams Construction Co., Arrived This Morning.

SUPERINTENDENT NOT HERE

Belief of Local Men That Operations
Will Begin Next Week—President Coming Tuesday.

A squad of men in the employe of the Adams Brothers Construction company of Zanesville, Ohio, who were awarded the contract for the paving of Main and Second streets with brick, arrived this morning ready for work. Fifteen head of horses and mules were unloaded and put in the old Hiner livery barn in East Second street near the race, where they will be kept during the work here. It is very probable that the work will be started the first part of next week.

One of the men who came this morning said that all of the wagons, plows, and paraphernalia to be used in the construction of the two streets had been shipped, but that they had not arrived yet. He said that they were expected next week, when they would be unloaded and be set up ready for work. The large majority of the animals arriving here this morning were mules, which will be used in the work of tearing up the streets and preparing them for the laying of the brick.

Local men who are in a position to make a statement believe that the work will be started next week. They say that it is very evident that the company intends to begin operation at once or the horses and men would not have been sent here. One of the men with the squad this morning said that he understood that they intended to commence work on the streets next week.

I. W. Harper, vice-president of the company, who superintends all of the big contracts for the firm, was expected here earlier in the week, but has never arrived. Local men were informed that he would come to oversee the work, but so far he has not yet put in his appearance. W. H. Adams, president of the company, has sent word to local men that he will arrive here next Tuesday.

WILL DISPOSE OF HIS STOCK

O. H. Bradway Will Discontinue the Furniture Business in This City.

HIS PLANS ARE INDEFINITE

O. H. Bradway, who came to this city from New Castle at the time he purchased C. F. Edgerton's furniture store, and who is now forced to move his stock of goods from the old Churchill building, because of its recent sale to Charles Mauzy, of the Mauzy Company, which firm is going to move into the building the first of October, is going to start a special sale on next Wednesday to dispose of his furniture stock preparatory to going out of the business. Mr. Bradway has no definite plans for the future, further than that he will drop the vocation he is now following permanently. While in this city he has made a host of friends, who are very sorry to see an energetic, friendly gentleman, like Mr. Bradway, discontinue business in this city.

Graham of Englishtown, New Jersey, who has been filling the pulpit at the First Presbyterian church will preach the sermon at the St. Paul M. E. church. The Rev. ESCAPES DEATH BY NARROW MARGIN

Automobile, Driven by Dr. W. H.
Smith, Almost Demolished When Hit by Traction Car.

PHYSICIAN WAS NOT INJURED

Dr. W. H. Smith escaped death by a narrow margin about noon today, when the buggy-automobile in which he was riding, was hit by the east-bound I. & C. traction car, due here at 11:20 o'clock, at the corner of Harrison and Seventh streets. The doctor was riding at a moderate rate of speed up to his home for dinner. He says that when he was within eighteen feet of the traction crossing in Harrison street, he saw the car approaching from the west and realized that he could not get across. Dr. Smith turned his machine to the left in an attempt to circle and go down the traction line east, and thus avoid being struck by the on-rushing car. He succeeded in a measure, but his car was brushed by the traction car and pushed over, Dr. Smith rolling out on the ground easily. The fender on the side of the machine, hit by the car, was torn off and the two wheels on the opposite side were broken down.

FALLS FIFTEEN FEET; IS UNHURT

Howard Turner, Connersville Telephone Lineman in Accident Near Here Yesterday.

LIMB BROKEN BY HIS WEIGHT

Howard Turner, one of the line-men employed by L. A. Frazee on the local telephone lines, was painfully but not dangerously hurt by a fall from a tree, near Rushville yesterday, says the Connersville News. The man was in that territory working on a Bell telephone line, and had climbed the tree to make some repairs on an insulation. He fell because of the breaking of a small limb upon which his weight was resting and struck the ground, fifteen feet below, with considerable force. His back and shoulders were painfully wrenched, and he returned home on a traction car soon after the accident. No bones were broken and his physicians think he will be able for work within a few days.

SHOWS SOME IMPROVEMENT

Gideon Wellman, who was injured in a runaway on Thursday, shows an improvement at his home in North Morgan street, although he is suffering somewhat from the two ribs which he had fractured.

WILL TAKE UP LYCEUM WORK

Jesse Pugh Has Contracted With the Redpath-Slayton Bureau, Which is One of the Largest.

BOOKED FOR ENTIRE SEASON

He Will be Assisted by an Accomplished Violinist and Also a Soprano Singer.

It may come as a surprise to the many friends of Jesse Pugh, to hear that he has contracted to go on the Lyceum platform next season. Mr. Pugh appeared before the committee of the Redpath-Slayton bureau a short time ago and they were so much pleased with his work that he was immediately engaged to head a company, which is to be composed of himself as baritone and reader, Miss Katherine Kellogg as vilonist and Miss Hazel Lathrop as soprano and accompanist. The trio will be known throughout the amusement world as Jesse Pugh and Company.

The Redpath-Slayton Bureau have the best entertainers, lecturers and readers on their lists of any amusement contracting bureau in the world. The Redpath-Slayton people are to be congratulated upon adding Mr. Pugh to their list, and at the same time Mr. Pugh is to be commended on being under the management of such an efficient and active firm as the one he has contracted with. His company has been booked for the entire season of 1910 and 1911 in many of the largest and best cities in the country.

The Rushville people know the ability of Mr. Pugh well. He is a natural genius both in character impersonation and interpretation. His baritone voice is one that never grows tiresome, and it is seldom that the people of this community fail to hear him when he appears in public. As a dramatic reader his genius is the best shown. His wonderful voice and forensic ability of the highest type, combined with his masterful interpretation of the human soul as it is revealed by the greatest authors and poets make his readings superior to those of the average far superior to those of the average elocutionist. The other members of the company are both artists in their respective lines. It is said that the voice of Miss Lathrop is one that has beautiful flute like qualities, and one which is full of vivaciousness and charm. Miss Kellogg is considered to be a violinist of rare ability. She has perfected the art in every respect—bowing, tone and self reliant rendition. Success and praise should crown the trio in their work, in any clime or in any locality.

Mr. Pugh will give up his position as assistant cashier of the Rush County National bank the first of October; thereafter he will leave immediately to take up his new work. Mrs. Pugh and her children will remain in this city throughout the winter.

HAS TEN DOLLARS COMING

Former Mayor Harvey Cowing Finds
State Owes Him.

Harvey Cowing, mayor of the city during the last administration which ended the first of this year, is more than delighted to learn the State owes him and he does not owe the State. He received word from the attorney general this morning that he had ten dollars coming to him which sum he paid in excess of what he really owed on fees collected while in office. It seems that he paid for the same thing twice.

JOINT PROPHETS LOSE THEIR SUIT

"Reincarnation of David" Taken From Them.

A STRANGE CASE IN NEW YORK

Driven Out of the Christian Science Church, They Say, by "Malicious Animal Magnetism," the Murrys Start a Cult of Their Own in Which Baby Waifs Play Leading Part—Court of Chancery Takes a Hand.

New York, July 23.—Sarah Van Allen Murray and W. John Murray, who are in themselves "the Church of the Healing Christ," are going to lose their little David, the reincarnation of David, king of the Jews. Vice Chancellor Howell of the New Jersey court of chancery at Trenton, so decreed when he ordered the joint prophets of the new dispensation to restore the reincarnation of the great psalmist to the St. Mary's orphanage of East Providence, R. I.

Mrs. Murray and W. John Murray, her husband, say that this decision of the court in the suit in the name of Miss Amy W. Mason of the asylum board, is but another stroke of the malicious animal magnetism that has been shifted their way by Mary Baker Eddy, Mrs. Augusta W. Stetson and several other heads of the Christian Science church ever since they, the Murrys, withdrew from that sect several years ago. The dual head of "the Church of the Healing Christ" also says collectively that the reason why Sarah and W. John Murray withdrew from the Christian Science church and adopted all the children they could well care for was Mrs. Eddy's secret preaching against the sacrament of marriage and the solemn duty of child bearing.

The taking away of little David is persecution, say the Murrys. They can trace the vengeful hand of the head of the Christian Science church through the court of chancery. They intend to throw sheltering wings over the other nine of their adopted brood which find asylum in their home at 93 Farrington place, East Orange, lest more bolts of malicious animal magnetism should unhappily strike a defenseless orphan's head.

Seven or eight months ago the Murrys adopted the boy Kenneth Williams out of the Providence orphanage and took him to live with them in the East Orange nursery. W. John Murray asserted positively that the adoption of little Kenneth had been done at the behest of Miss Mason. Not only had Kenneth been taken into the shelter of the household and "the church of the healing Christ," but three other orphans whom Miss Mason had recommended as worthy had previously been received into the Murray home.

When Kenneth came to the expansive hearth of the Murrys Mrs. Murray felt that he had been sent to her by God as a divine possession, and she believed that out of the brown, serious eyes of the orphan the soul of Jesse's tuneful scion peered. At least she named him David and she did not hesitate to say that East Orange housed a mighty man of God redivivus.

"Miss Mason was a visitor at our house several times after David came," said W. John Murray, as he tilted back and forth in the swivel chair of the pontificate. "She seemed to place the utmost confidence in us until she learned that we were not members of the Christian Science church, as she had supposed. At that minute she cooled toward us and soon thereafter she instituted suit for the recovery of little David."

W. John Murray said that she had cited every ground in the petition for a writ of habeas corpus which she had made on the New Jersey court; that the Murrys were improper and irreligious persons; that they were grossly immoral, and that they were not financially competent to give the proper care to their adopted son.

"She put us down as grossly immoral because we did not adhere to Mrs. Eddy's secret teachings against marriage and carnal relations," Mr. Murray explained.

Former Spanish Premier Victim of a Would-Be Assassin.

Barcelona, July 23.—Senor Maura, formerly prime minister, was shot and wounded last night. His would-be assassin was arrested. Maura was alighting from a train from Madrid when his assailant approached and fired three shots at him. Two of the bullets went wide of their mark, but the third hit Senor Maura in the leg.

MINNESOTA SKIPS YEAR OF TAXATION

Unprecedented Situation Presented in That State.

Minneapolis, July 23.—There won't be any state taxes in Minnesota in 1911. The state government's expenses will all be met by the huge surplus in the state treasury.

No state taxes is an unheard-of thing. The condition is supposed to be without precedent in the United States, as it is in Minnesota. On Oct. 1 there will be a surplus of $4,000,000 in the state treasury. It is expected that Oct. 1, 1911, will show a surplus of $1,700,000 after all the governmental expenses for the year have been paid.

The unusual amount of money in the state's cash box is due to the settling of a number of lawsuits, the lumber cases, the gross earnings tax cases, the Kennedy inheritance tax affair and other extraordinary revenues coming up from court decisions.

Kept the Colonel Busy.

Oyster Bay, July 23.—Colonel Roosevelt is attempting to reduce the stack of correspondence which is pouring in on him like a torrent. He told the reporters that where formerly there were hundreds of letters there are actually thousands now. He's working like a war horse to keep up with his correspondents.

REVOLUTION A FALSE ALARM

Nothing Doing in That Line in Honduras.

THE RUMOR WAS ONLY A SCARE

Bonillaists in New Orleans Declare That Their Cause Will Be Triumphant in the November Election Anyway, Hence There Is No Call for a Change of Administration by the Force of Arms.

New Orleans, July 23.—The supporters of Bonilla, ousted from the presidency of Honduras by Zelaya and Davila, refuse to believe the story of a revolution at Ceiba, and declare that it is only a scare. The Bonilla revolution, they say, has been postponed until after the Honduras election in November. Moreover, all of the Bonilla leaders are in Nicaragua fighting for General Estrada. They will not be ready to take the field for Bonilla until the trouble in Nicaragua is settled either by intervention by the United States or by the victory of the Estrada arms. If Madriz fails, Davila will leave Honduras, because the one depends on the other. If the United States intervenes then a fair election in Honduras is assured and Manuel Bonilla will be the next president.

The representatives of Bonilla say that there will not be the slightest trouble in getting rid of Davila when they start their revolution, but they regard this as not an opportune time and will wait until the United States shows its hand more clearly in Nicaragua.

President Davila is the product of the last Honduras revolution, instigated and effected by Zelaya, when president of Nicaragua, and when he was aiming, as all Central Americans do, to be dictator of a reunited Central America. With his then strong and efficient army he invaded Honduras and with the assistance of a small force of revolutionists overthrew the government, driving out President Bonilla. He made very harsh terms with Honduras because of his so-called liberation of the people from Bonilla's rule. Placing the weakest of the revolutionary presidential candidates, Davila, temporarily in the presidency, he insisted upon a cession of Honduras territory, and the payment of the expenses incurred by Nicaragua in liberating the people of Honduras. This has been a heavy burden and has compelled President Davila not only to levy new taxes, but to cut the pay of all government officials, which has not tended to increase his popularity.

It is a somewhat singular fact that Estrada, now revolutionary president of Nicaragua, his friend and ally, and whom Bonilla furnished with the arms with which he started his revolution, was the man in command of the Zelaya forces that overran Honduras and placed Miguel Davila in the presidency. It was intended to be only temporary, but Davila, when he got into power, would not let go, and has held on since.

Booze in Perfumes

Sections of the country which receive their intoxicating stimulants in the guise of perfumes, essences, medicines or drugs were delivered a body blow by Commissioner Cabell of the internal Revenue Bureau, who gave out a list of more than 200 preparations which may hereafter be handled by drug stores only after the government license is paid.

Treasury department officials said they believed that many of these preparations were concocted for sale mainly in "dry territories" where the prohibition laws made it impossible to obtain legally any thing with a liquor flavor.

It is estimated that there are 40,000 druggists in the United States, slightly more than half of whom pay the $25 yearly special tax which permits them to sell the preparation involved. Other stores which continue to vend these mixtures will now be required to pay the tax and the United States treasury will be enriched accordingly.

In a modern product. From time immemorial sage and sulphur have been used for the hair and scalp. Almost every one knows the value of such a combination for darkening the hair and making it grow. Safest Place in a Storm

What is the safest place in a thunder storm? The question is apropos at the moment. As a rule the safest place of all is inside a building which is provided with a perfect lightning conductor. The conductor, however, must have no defects. If it be broken, or have a faulty earth connection, it is then a source of grave danger.

In an ordinary dwelling house, unguarded as it usually is against lightning, a safe place is the middle of the largest room, where one is away from the walls, or a still safer precaution is to lie on an iron bed drawn out from contact with the wall.

The most dangerous places in the house are near the telephone wires or an open window or the fireplace. Outside the house the places of danger are proximity to walls and buildings and iron fences.

Another danger is a crowd. The vapor which rises from a crowd tends to lead a flash towards the crowd. In the open country one of the most dangerous places is the bank of a river. Avenues of trees, lakes and hedges are likewise dangerous.

Negro Common Sense

The best friend of the negro race is not the man who prates abstractly about prejudices and social equality but the man who presents a constructive plan for the industrial and social evolution of the race that through toil and tribulation is coming "up from slavery," and in spite of lapses and discouraging setbacks is steadily achieving higher standards of morality, economy and intelligence, says the Philadelphia Ledger. Booker Washington at Tuskegee institute is not satisfied merely to inculcate the theory of "virtuous energizing." He has his thousands of students learn to do something practical, something that has a market value because it is useful to the world at large.

Shirt Waist Belts

Shirt waist belts designed for the summer season are of indefinite variety. What is known as the aboriginal or American Indian style is made of a two-inch wide strip of taupe or tan colored suede laced throughout its entire length with medium sized venetian beads. Its lower edge is finished with leather throng and its ends are joined with a large buckle of metal, showing a repousse beaten Indian head.

Bronze leather belts to match walking shoes and shopping bags are in a variety of widths. Their edges are stitched with bright or dull gold thread and their buckles are of gold or gilded bronze metal.

Combination elastic belts have entire backs composed of silk elastic while the tab ends are seamy calf cut to conform with the shape of the fancy, circular one-piece buckle with which they are equipped. These belts are to be found in all popular shades.

Two English leather covered stitched buckles give a droop front and a unique and impressive appearance to the enameled and sealskin belts designed especially for sporting costume accessories. They are in dull brown, greens, blues and grays used for golf and tennis skirts.

Persian patterned silk rubber belts which lend a pleasing color note to a white or black frock, have a large buckle set with Gainsborough designs and have two small pearl buckles, one set at each side of the front center.

Kick and there's trouble brewing; whistle and life is gay, and the world's in tune like a day in June, and the clouds all melt away."

Press Unerring Mirror

Editor L. S. Richard of the Rochester Evening Times, in speaking of the "Social Value of Newspapers" in Rochester recently, gave the following as his opinions: "The newspaper is an exact and unerring mirror of the public which support it. When you want to measure a city, examine its newspapers. If they are erratic, unclean, disorderly or flippant and sarcastic, better not choose that city as a place of residence for your wife and children. But if you find that the newspapers are well ordered, kindly, a bit conservative, yet open-eyed to what is going on and careful in keeping offensive things down or out, then you may safely expect to find an honest, orderly and neighborly community, with more good in it than bad, and with the good not far to seek."

About That $500.

That the city of Rushville should pay the exorbitant sum of five hundred dollars and an additional sum of five per cent on every piece of machinery which is installed for a mechanical engineer, expert or otherwise, to go over the city water and light plant to name what repairs should be made, seems ridiculous, especially in the light of what Dr. C. H. Parsons, city councilman, reported that a mechanical engineer in Indianapolis, who has gained the hyphen of expert, would do the same work for fifty dollars on a week day or twenty-five dollars on Sunday. That may be an economical administration and again it might not be. It would take an awful amount of persuasion to make a thinking man believe that it was economical to pay out five hundred dollars—and no one seems to know how much more—simply for a man to go over the city water and light plant and learn the trouble there, that is, if there really is any trouble, especially when an Indianapolis engineer agreed to do the same work for more than four hundred and fifty dollars cheaper.

But, let's see. Perhaps there is something more to this nipped-in-the-bud contract, than what has already been brought to the light of day. Perhaps after all, the sedate and careful councilmen are not so solicitous for the welfare and interest of the dear taxpayer as they would make you believe. Perhaps after all they had some ulterior motive in making the proposed contract other than that which they give—that of saving money for the people of Rushville who pay taxes into the city coffers. Perhaps there may be a bit of politics all the while they are making a vain endeavor to save the "public" such large amounts of money by spending one-half thousand dollars and that additional five per cent.

A brief review of the Democratic city administration since it has been in power may help some and also the war that has been waged on A. T. Mahin, superintendent of the water and light plant, in an effort to install another man in his place. When the city officers took their jobs the first of the year, they began chopping off heads, since the last administration was Republican. They changed nearly every man in the employ of the city. They sought to put in a new water and light plant superintendent, but here is where they met the one stumbling block in the whole city administration. Here's where Dr. C. H. Parsons takes the leading role.

There was considerable astonishment expressed among local politicians, when after the first meeting was a matter of history, Mr. Mahin still retained his position. It was believed that he would be the first one to go, since it is about the best plum which the city administration has to hand out. But he stayed and the astonishment increased. In the meantime the members of the Democratic caucus were parading the applicants for the place before Dr. C. H. Parsons, who had not found a man who he believed was as capable as A. T.

Mahin. The other Democrats continued to parade the applicants and Dr. Parsons continued to refuse. Dr. Parsons also believed that the city was morally and legally bound to keep Mr. Mahin until July first as his contract continued until that time.

The matter was finally brought to an issue and as everyone will remember, A. T. Mahin was retained for another year. Dr. Parsons voting with the two Republicans, Newhouse and Moore. Dr. Parsons still believed that a man did not reside in Rushville who could fill the position as well as Mr. Mahin had done and for that reason voted for him. He did it through no love for Mr. Mahin, but because he believed that it was to the best interests of the residents of Rushville, whom he represented on the city council. He believed that it was the most vital duty of the city council to have a man in that position, who understood his business, as it was the institution which had been the chief trouble in the work of former city councils. Every resident of Rushville is well aware that the water and light plant has been the one bother to other city administrations. The last administration had trouble in finding a competent man until they happened upon A. T. Mahin. He gave entire satisfaction and accomplished wonders with the plant. During his stay here, he has installed a day current, a new engine, so that there is no need for closing down the plant to make repairs and has been operating the plant in a business-like manner. Any member of the last city council will testify to that, that Mr. Mahin has given the most satisfactory service of any man since the plant has been an institution in Rushville. So, Dr. Parsons then had sufficient reason for his action.

But the Democratic politicians in the city could not see it that way. On Tuesday night, June 7th, the city council by a vote of three to two elected Mr. Mahin to that position for another year, running from July 9, when his contract expired, until July 9, 1911.

On the following day the Democratic Central Committee in session drew up the following resolutions and published it:

"Resolved, That we, the members of the Democratic Central Committee of Rush county, Ind., believing that it has the sentiment of the voters of the city of Rushville in the election of said city on November 3, 1909, that the Republican appointees in the city offices should be removed at the proper time and as their terms would expire, and be it further

"Resolved, That the vote of Dr. Charles Parsons in the city council June 7, 1910, in favor of the appointment of A. T. Mahin for superintendent of the water and light plant for one year, running from July 9, 1910, to July 9, 1911, was an act of treachery toward public sentiment in said city at the date of the election as well as at the present time, and does not speak the sentiments of the voters who elected him to his position on the city council of said city."

Perhaps the Democratic city administration would find something wrong with the management of the plant after the five hundred dollar—and the five per cent must not be forgotten—expert engineer had made an examination. He, for that five hundred dollars, might have decided that A. T. Mahin was not competent to manage the plant and his position might have been declared vacant for a Democrat, who worked on election day.

The local Democratic organ, in an editorial on Thursday is very solicitous for the general welfare of Mr. Mahin—and all very suddenly, too. They say that the action of the city council may cast some reflection on the superintendent, in view of the fact that they refuse to allow an experienced engineer to overhaul the plant, all for the small sum of five hundred dollars—and the five per cent. Mr. Mahin has proven to the satisfaction of most of the residents of Rushville that he is capable of managing the plant and that he was not first retained by the Republican council because he had worked for the party. He came here from Connersville to take the position and had not made the Republican party indebted to him beforehand.

Cleanliness Fly Remedy

B. W. Douglass, State etomologist, who has been giving considerable attention for the past year to suitable methods of combating the house fly, states the Indianapolis News, has an illustrated article on the subject in the July number of Life and Health, published in Washington, D. C. One of the illustrations is from a photograph made by Mr. Douglass of a swarm of flies which were active in the attic of a farm house near Indianapolis last winter. Another is of a poster used by the Indiana state board of health in its state wide campaign against the dangerous pest. Summing up his article, Mr. Douglass said:

"It is a big task to teach a nation to be clean. And yet that is the problem which we are to face in America if we are to lessen the fly evil. Nor can we teach a nation or an individual to be clean until the nation or individual wants to be clean. Possibly a disseminating knowledge regarding the real nature of the house fly will prove to be an incentive to individual and national cleanliness, but it is certain that until we have national cleanliness we shall continue to be a fly-pestered country."

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The stomach also has its hidden, or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves. This, no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organs. CHARGE MURDER IN FIRST DEGREE

Deputy Prosecutor Files an Affidavit
Against Greensburg Farm Hand
While Coroner Reports Verdict.

"PREMEDITATED HOMICIDE"

Deputy Prosecuting Attorney G. W. Bruce yesterday filed an affidavit in the court of Justice A. S. Creath, charging Ben Noble with murder in the first degree, says a Greensburg dispatch. Just previous to this, Coroner T. B. Guilefer filed the report of his inquest over the body of Albert Sprague and returned a ten-page verdict which he closes as follows: "From the above facts I return the following verdict: Death was due to premeditated homicide."

Rollin Turner, one of the attorneys retained by Noble, refuses to discuss the case, but stated that his firm was prepared to make a defense in behalf of Noble. He was not prepared to assert whether a preliminary hearing will be waived.

The probability of mob violence is still talked on the streets, and as long as this feeling continues the prisoner will not be brought to Greensburg to be arraigned.

The second subject is a farce entitled "Poetical Jane." Leon Maxey will sing "When You Think There's No One Looking." If rain prevents showing in the air dome, will show at the Star Grand.

The Girl and the Bill

By Bannister Merwin

ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WALTERS

"A few days ago a countryman of mine sent word that he was about to die. He asked that I, his early friend, should come to him immediately and receive news of utmost importance. He was lying sick in the hotel of a small city in Wisconsin. He was a tobacco agent and he had been attacked by death while he was on a business trip.

"Filled with the heartbroken hope to see him once more before he died, I went even as I was, to a train and made all haste to his bedside."

"What was his name?" asked Orme. "Lopez," replied Senor Poritol promptly; and Orme knew that the answer might as well have been Smith. But the little man returned quickly to his story.

"My friend had no strength left. He was, oh, so weak that I wept to see him. But he sent the doctor and the priest out of the room, and then—and then he whispered in my ear a secret. He had discovered rich gold in the Urinaba country. He had been trying to earn money to go back and dig up the gold. But, alas! now he was dying, and he wished to give the secret to me, his old friend.

"Tears streamed on my cheek," Senor Poritol's eyes filled, seemingly at the remembrance. "But I took out my fountain pen to write down the directions he wished to give. See—this was the pen." He produced a gold-mounted tube from his waistcoat.

"I searched my pockets for a piece of paper. None could I discover. There was no time to be lost, for my friend was growing weaker, oh, very fast. In desperation I took a five-dollar bill, and wrote upon it the directions he gave me for finding the gold. Even as I finished it, dear Lopez breathed his last breath."

Orme puffed at his cigar. "So the bul carries directions for finding a rich deposit in the Urinaba mountains?"

"Yes, my dear sir. But you would not rob me of it. You could not understand the directions."

"Oh, no," Orme laughed. "I have no interest in South American gold mines."

"Then accept this fresh bill," implored Senor Poritol, "and give me back the one I yearn for."

Orme hesitated. "A moment more," he said. "Tell me, how did you lose possession of the marked bill?"

The South American writhed in his chair and leaned forward eagerly. "That is the most distressing part of all," he exclaimed. "I had left Chicago at a time when my presence in this great city was very important indeed. Nothing but the call from a dying friend would have induced me to go away. My whole future in this country depended upon my returning in time to complete certain business.

"So, after dear Lopez was dead, I rushed to the local railroad station. A train was coming in. I searched my pocket for my money to buy my ticket. All I could find was the five-dollar bill!"

"It was necessary to return to Chicago; yet I could not lose the bill. A happy thought struck me. I wrote upon the face of it the words you have seen, and paid it to the ticket agent. I called his attention to the writing and implored him to save the bill if he could until I returned, and if not, to be sure to remember the person he gave it to."

Orme laughed.

"It does seem funny," said Senor Poritol, rolling another cigarette, "but you cannot imagine my most frantic desperation. I returned to Chicago and transacted my business. Then I hastened back to the Wisconsin city. Woe is me! The ticket agent had paid the bill to a Chicago citizen. I secured the name of this man and finally found him at his office on La Salle street. Alas! he, too, had spent the bill, but I tracked it from person to person, until now, my dear sir, I have found it! So—" he paused and looked eloquently at Orme.

"Do you know a man named Evans?" Orme asked.

Senor Poritol looked at him in bewilderment.

"S. R. Evans," insisted Orme.

"Why, no, dear sir—I think not. But what has that to do—?"

Orme pushed a sheet of paper across the table. "Oblige me, Senor Poritol, the table."

"Oblige me, Senor Poritol."

"Oblige me, Senor Poritol."

"Oblige me, Senor Poritol."

"Oblige me, Senor Poritol."

"Oblige me, Senor Poritol."

"Oblige me, Senor Poritol."

until he was needed, or until the visitors left.

Senor Poritol remained downstairs for several minutes. Evidently he was explaining the situation to his friend. But after a time Orme heard the clang of the elevator door, and in response to the knock that quickly followed, he opened his own door. At the side of his former visitor stood a dapper foreigner. He wore a long frock coat and carried a glossy hat, and his eyes were framed by large gold spectacles.

"This is the Senor Alcatrante," explained Senor Poritol.

The newcomer bowed with suave dignity.

"Senor Alcatrante? The name is familiar," said Orme, smiling.

Poritol assumed an air. "He is the minister from my country to these United States."

Orme understood. This was the wary South American diplomat whose name had lately been so prominent in the Washington dispatches. What was he doing in Chicago?

"I am glad to meet you," said Orme. Alcatrante smiled, displaying a prominent row of uneven teeth.

"My young friend, Poritol," he began, "tells me that you have in your possession the record of a secret belonging to me. What that secret is, is immaterial to you and me, I take it. He is an honorable young man—excitable, perhaps, but well-meaning. I would suggest that you give him the five-dollar bill he desires, accepting from him another in exchange. Or, if you still doubt him, permit me to offer you a bill from my own pocket." He drew out a fat wallet.

The situation appeared to be simplified. And yet Orme was dubious. There was mischief in the bill; so much he felt sure of. Alcatrante's reputation was that of a fox, and as for Poritol, he was, to say the least, a person of uncertain qualities. Orme could not but admire the subtle manner in which Alcatrante sought delicately to limit his doubts to the mere possibility that Poritol was trying to pass spurious money. He decided not to settle the question at this moment.

"This seems to be rather a mixed up affair, Senor Alcatrante," he said. "There is much more in it than appears. Call on me tomorrow morning and you shall have my decision."

Alcatrante and Poritol looked at each other. The minister spoke: "Will you engage not to give the bill to anyone else in the interval?"

"I will promise that," said Orme. "It is only fair. Yes, I will keep the bill until tomorrow morning."

"One other suggestion," continued Alcatrante. "You may not be willing to give up the bill, but is there any reason why you should refuse to let Senor Poritol copy the writing that is on it?"

"Only my determination to think the whole matter over before I do anything at all," Orme replied.

"But the bill came into your hands by chance," insisted the minister. "The information means nothing to you, though obviously it means a great deal to my young friend, here. May I ask what right you have to deny this request?"

"What right," Orme's eyes narrowed. "My right is that I have the bill and the information, and I intend to understand the situation better before I give the information to anyone else."

"But you recognized Senor Poritol's handwriting on the bill," exclaimed the minister.

"On the face of it, yes. He did not write the abbreviations on the back."

"Abbreviations?" exclaimed Poritol. "Please let the matter rest till morning," said Orme stubbornly. "I have told you just what I would do."

Poritol opened his mouth to speak, but Alcatrante silenced him with a frown. "Your word is sufficient, Mr. Orme," he said. "We will call tomorrow morning. Is ten o'clock too early?"

"Not at all," said Orme. "Doubtless I shall be able to satisfy you. I merely wish to think it over."

With a formal bow, Alcatrante turned to the door and departed, Poritol following.

Orme strolled back to his window and stood idly watching the lights of the vessels on the lake. But his mind was not on the unfolded view before him. He was puzzling over this mystery in which he had so suddenly become a factor. Unquestionably the five-dollar bill held the key to some serious problem.

Surely Alcatrante had not come merely as the friend of Poritol, for the difference in the station of the two South Americans was marked. Poritol was a cheap character—useful, no doubt, in certain kinds of work, but vulgar and unconvincing. He might well be one of those promoters who hang on at the edge of great projects, hoping to pick up a commission here and there. His strongest point was his obvious effort to triumph over his own insignificance, for this effort, by its comic but desperate earnestness, could not but command a certain degree of respect.

Alcatrante, on the other hand, was a name to make statesmen knit their brows. A smooth trouble-maker, he had set Europe by the ears in the matter of unsettled South American loans, dexterously appealing to the much-overworked Monroe doctrine every time his country was threatened by a French or German or British blockade. But his mind was of no small caliber. He could hold his own not only at his own game of international chess, but in the cultured discussion of polite topics. Orme knew of him as a clever after-dinner speaker, a man who could, when he so desired, please greatly by his personal charm.

No, Alcatrante was no friend of Poritol's; nor was it likely that, as protector of the interests of his countrymen, he would go so far as to accompany them on their errands unless much was at stake. Perhaps Poritol was Alcatrante's tool and had bungled some important commission. It occurred to Orme that the secret of the bill might be connected with the negotiation of a big business concession in Alcatrante's country. "S. R. Evans" might be trying to get control of rubber forests or mines—in the Urinaba mountains, perhaps, after all. In any event, he felt positive that the secret of the bill did not rightfully belong to Poritol. If the bill had been in his possession, he should have been able to copy the abbreviated message. Indeed, the lies that he told were all against the notion of placing any confidence in him. The two South Americans were altogether too eager.

Orme decided to go for a walk. He could think better in the open air. He took up his hat and cane and descended the elevator.

In the office the clerk stopped him. "A man called to see you a few minutes ago, Mr. Orme. When I told him that you were engaged with two visitors he went away."

"Did he leave his name?" asked Orme.

"No, sir. He was a Japanese."

Orme nodded and went on out to the street. What could a Japanese want of him?

BRYAN WANTED TO LEND A HAND

Indiana Democrats Will Invite Nebraskan to Speak.

THE COMMITTEE UNDIVIDED

There Was Not a Dissenting Voice
When Proposition to Ask Mr. Bryan to Lend a Hand in the Indiana Campaign Was Presented Before State Committee—Possible Embarrassment on Account of Option Issue.

Indianapolis, July 23.—After a protracted discussion in which it appeared that it was the sense of the members of the Democratic state committee that the party could not afford to put a slight on W. J. Bryan, the committee determined to invite the Nebraskan to make speeches in Indiana this fall. The candidates of the state ticket were present, and when the conference adjourned Samuel M. Ralston of Lebanon, chairman of the campaign committee, said: "Everybody agreed that the party should invite Bryan to speak in Indiana this year. We all like him and believe in him, and there was not a dissenting voice on the proposition of asking him to come into the state. At the proper time State Chairman Jackson will send him the invitation."

There has been some doubt as to just what Bryan will do with the invitation to speak in this state, because of the local option situation. The Democratic platform declares for the substitution of city and township option for county option, and it has been pointed out that since Bryan is fighting for county option in Nebraska it would be embarrassing for him to make city and township option speeches in this state. It has even been said that the Anti-Saloon League would invite him to make county option speeches in Indiana.

It was decided that two big cards
from outside the state shall be Congressman Champ Clark of Missouri and Senator Gore of Oklahoma. The speaking campaign will open about Sept. 10, but it was said that no one had been selected to make the keynote speech.

AN INVESTIGATION

Has Been Begun Into Alleged Violation
of Full Train Crew Law.

Indianapolis, July 23.—The railroad commission of Indiana took up the Grand Trunk situation when it instituted an inquiry into allegations that the company had collected a lot of inexperienced men at South Bend with whom to man its freight trains, which are now tied up there because of a strike among the Grand Trunk employees. The road operates in Indiana from near Granger, in St. Joseph county, to beyond Maynard, in Lake county.
The complaint on which the commission acted was filed by Charles L.
Goetz, mayor of South Bend, who represented that the road had taken to that city a large number of men from Chicago who were not experienced railroad men.

An act of the general assembly of 1909, known as the full crew law, requires that all flagmen required by the provisions of the law, shall have had at least one year's experience in train service. It was under this section of the act that the commission acted. It was understood at the office of the commission that the Grand Trunk company was not moving any freight with the men procured in Chicago, but was preparing to use them. A telegram was sent to F. W. Egan of Detroit, superintendent of the road, calling his attention to the provisions of the full crew law, and to the fact "that the commission had been informed that the road was preparing to violate this law as well as to employ other train-men not qualified for the work."

MOVING ALONG

The President Takes a Trip to Bangor
to Make a Speech.

Bangor, Me., July 23.—President
Taft completed his stay in Bar Harbor yesterday afternoon when he drove from the Kebo Valley club over to Seal Harbor to become the luncheon guest of Mrs. Mark Hanna. The Mayflower raised anchor a few minutes after he left Kebo and slipped to sea
in the teeth of a gale that was howling up the coast. The presidential party left Seal Harbor on the yacht this morning for the Mt. Desert ferry terminus on the mainland. There they boarded a special train on the Maine Central. Mrs. Taft and the other women in the party quit the special at Ellsworth, twenty miles inland, and were driven to the home of Senator Hale.
The president and some of the men came into Bangor, where Mr. Taft will make an address this afternoon. The president will return to Ellsworth this evening, and the whole party will stay at the Hale home until Sunday afternoon, when they will return to Mt.
Desert to board the Mayflower for a sail down the coast to Isleboro, Rockland and Casco bay.

Woman Passenger's Serious Loss.
Hamburg, July 23.—An American woman who was a passenger on the steamer Amerika has reported to the police here that jewels to the value of $50,000 were stolen from her cabin.

RAWN CASE TAKES ON MYSTERIOUS ASPECT

Revenge Now Hinted At As Murder Motive.

Chicago, July 23.—While the remains of Ira G. Rawn, late president of the Monon, were being laid to rest in Rose Hill yesterday, two negroes were run down on a mysterious tip received by Coroner Hoffman and hastened secretly to the city hall, where they were subjected to a severe grilling.
Coroner Hoffman refuses to give the name of his informant, but says he is a man of such prominence that his information carries great weight. The letter to the coroner said Rawn had been slain by a negro from motives of revenge.

One of the negroes under arrest is Ernest Hoffman, aged twenty-four, who worked for the Rawns in the stable
from May, 1906, to December, 1909, and was discharged. The negro is said to have been heard to declare he would kill Rawn.

There are many facts in the mysterious case to support this theory. Witnesses have been found who saw two negroes lurking in the vicinity of the Rawn home and neighbors heard two men discussing some crime in the Rawn shrubbery on the night of the tragedy. The negroes came out from Chicago on the last suburban train.
Residents of Winnetka who saw them were so impressed by their evil appearance that they sought to inform the authorities, but for some reason
this was not done.

Coroner Hoffman attaches much importance to the clue he got and the arrest of the two negroes. On the other hand members of the Rawn household scoff at the idea that he was slain for revenge and insist he had no enemies.

BOLD THEFT

The Monna Lisa Said to Have Been Stolen From the Louvre.

Paris, July 23.—It has just come to light that Leonardo Da Vinci's masterpiece, Monna Lisa, declared by many critics to be the most perfect work of art ever produced, was stolen from the Louvre one night about a month ago
through the complicity of a high official of the museum. A copy of the painting was put in place of the original, the report states, and the genuine painting is now in New York. The Cri de Paris says that a New York millionaire collector has the original.

An Expert's Opinion of Skin Disease.

A prominent, national expert on skin diseases whose name you are familiar with says that in all his scientific experience he has never found so hard a disease to conquer as Eczema. Yet he does not hesitate to recommend ZEMO as a most successful remedy for the treatment of Eczema, itching skin disease, dandruff, pimples, blackheads and all other diseases of the skin and scalp.
He says that not only do its curative qualities make it popular but also the fact that it is a clean, liquid remedy for external use. A great improvement over the old style greasy salves and lotions which are not only unpleasant to use but do not destroy the germ life that causes the disease. ZEMO draws the germs to the surface and destroys them, leaving the skin clear and healthy. Can be used freely on infants. Mr. F. E.
Wolcott will gladly supply those who call with a free sample bottle of ZEMO and a booklet which explains in simple language all about skin disease and how to cure yourself at home with ZEMO.

POLITICAL COMEDY

In Which Leading Characters Sedu-lously Avoid Each Other.

[Special Correspondence.]

Indianapolis, July 23.—The Democratic "campaign committee," an adjunct of the Democratic state central committee, meeting yesterday at the Denison hotel in this city, was forced to carry on its discussion and its campaign planning without the aid or presence of John Kern, Democratic candidate for United States senator.
It was "Hamlet," without the solemn-visaged, sepulchral Dane. It was Damon and Pythias without Damon. It was comedy with the leading comedian on a vacation. Politically, it was a session of candidates with the chief candidate left out; a caucus bereft of the most interested and important conferee. And there was a reason for the time of holding the meeting, and a reason for the vacant chair marked "J.
W. K."

Friday was Senator Shively's turn to be in town. That being the case it was John Worth Kern's turn to be out of the city. So Mr. Kern went to Bay View, Mich., for his health. It is healthier for Mr. Kern anywhere else, when Senator Shively arrives in Indianapolis. Kern seems to believe that discretion is valor's better part.
When comes the word that Shively tends towards Indianapolis, Kern either withdraws into his coal bunker or hies to Michigan or French Lick.
When Shively is not around, Mr. Kern is at liberty to sit in the inner councils of his party. When Shively shows up, the council lacks its brightest and most important figure. For Kern disappears.

There will be a lot of interest during the weeks to come, in the game of hide and seek being played by Shively and Kern, the Dodge Duo of vaudeville's acrobats. So long as Kern refuses to retract the libelous bribery charges he made against Shively's best friends, of course Senator Shively cannot be expected to be friendly. So long as Kern's memory holds the heat of the wrong put on him by Shively
and the latter's crowd in the betrayal caucus of 1909, of course Mr. Kern cannot feel at ease in Shively's presence.
This means vacation expedients and extraordinary shifts and evasions in the Democratic campaign. It is all very inconvenient. But it is all necessary.

Since Indiana Republicans have begun to show not only a harmony spirit, but the real Roosevelt "fighting edge," the Democrats have lost that cocksure confidence which marked their spring gyrations and boasts.
With the announcement that both Roosevelt and Taft would come to help in the Indiana Republican campaign,
and with the public utterances of various notable Republican workers indicating that this is to be a year of Republican harmony and hustle, the Democrats have become more and more panicky. One of the Democratic leaders, through the Democratic publicity bureau, says: "The fight for a Democratic house, which will prove the forerunner of a Democratic president, and a Democratic revision of the tariff, is now on. We ought to win.
But we must fight if we would win.
Some folks seem to think that all we have to do is to stand still and see the salvation of the Lord. Such over-confidence may cost us dear. 'Tis true
the Republicans are badly scared, but we should remember that sometimes men fight most viciously when scared
the worst, and so it may be with them." These are the warning words of Champ Clark, the fire-eating Mis-souriian who hopes to be Democratic speaker in case his party wins at the polls next November.

The battle cry of Champ Clark is needed in the Democratic ranks. And his earnestness should impress Republicans no less than it does the men he addresses. Mr. Clark is right when he intimates that Republicans will put up a real fight. The count of the votes November next will show just how strenuous the fight has been. The Republican fight will be more than usually strong because of the fact that Democrats, if they win, will be in position to keep Republicans out of governmental place for an indefinite number of years. The thing which Republicans emphasize more and more as the campaign draws near, is the fact that congressional and legislative re-apportionments are to be made in Indiana by the coming legislature. The election will decide whether Indiana is to have a Republican re-apportionment on fair lines, or a Democratic gerrymander which will be intended to bar Republicans from power for twenty years to come, thus by unfair methods peculiar to the Taggart bosses, disfranchising thousands of voters indefinitely.

No issue of the year has been more carefully studied than this one of the periodical re-apportionments which fall to the next legislature. The senatorial matter looms large. But it does not involve the future of the party more seriously than does the question of the re-apportionments.
Every Republican in the state,
whether an active worker or not, can agree and unite on the need for strong and effective resistance against a Taggart gerrymander of Indiana.

More than this, there is the national congress to be considered, and its make-up for the last two years of the present Taft term. It is plain that Indiana Republicans are determined on answering the Taft request by performing just the duty he has set for them to do.

GOVERNMENT WILL TAKE UP THE CONES

Inspectors Find Borax in Ice Cream
Containers and Prosecutions
Will Probably Follow.

LOCAL DEALERS DO NOT USE IT

Prosecutions against manufacturers of ice cream cones containing borax are to be instituted by the government under the pure food law. Large seizures of cones were made recently in different parts of the country by inspectors of the Department of Agriculture. Analysis disclosed the presence of borax, a property which has been held to be deleterious to the human stomach. Inspectors will continue to make seizures wherever cones are found containing borax. Manufacturers using borax contend that this ingredient is necessary to make the cones hold their shape.

Local dealers in ice cream cones say, they manufacture most of those used and they declare that no borax is used in these manufactured at home. Some of the dealers have ordered shipments of ice cream cones from eastern firms to supply their trade and they say they have no means of knowing what these cones contain, but that they have never heard any complaint about them.

A Word of Thanks.

I wish to thank the Imperial Remedy Co., manufacturers of the Imperial Eczema Remedy, also Hargrove & Mullin, who are agents and recommended it to me, for what their remedy has done for me, as I am almost entirely cured.

I take this means, through the Republican, to offer my thanks that the good people may know of the benefit I have obtained and that other sufferers of eczema may learn of this wonderful remedy.

Hockings, who came to town Wednesday to see the sights, wanted to enlist their aid in helping him to recover a brand-new $5 Fedora, which he said had been taken away from him Wednesday night by a bold, bad highwayman.

SAYS CHENEY IS TO BE DEFEATED

Political Dopster on the Shelbyville
Republican is of Opinion That Brown Looks Good.

FOR PROSECUTOR NOMINATION

In the Meantime Rush County Has
Two Candidates For the Job
And All is Not Well.

The political dopster on the Shelbyville Republican has the following to say on the situation in the sixteenth judicial district:

The quartet of Democratic candidates for the nomination for prosecuting attorney, continues to beat the bushes and worry their friends. Over in Rush county both O'Neil and Carson are said to be professing liberal tendencies, and in this vicinity, Cheney and Brown are on the milk wagon.

Cheney is not as fond of explaining his local option views as his younger rival, and he is just a trifle sore, too, over Mr. Brown's impulsive announcement of his candidacy, made at a time when Cheney had gone out of town on a pleasure trip and had placed Mr. Brown temporarily in charge of his office. Mr. Brown's action is being mentioned freely by Mr. Cheney's friends and not always in a manner to reflect credit on Mr. Brown.

But it is anybody's race. Mr. Cheney is running now mostly to save his distance. His county is divided, and Mr. Brown appears to hold the balance of power. Brown is an old-time book agent, it is said. One of a type that can talk for three hours at a stretch and never ravel or run down. He is said to have won the capital prize three years in succession in the matter of disposing of the greatest number of books and is not afraid to meet men and compel a hearing.

O'Neil has friends in Rush, but shrewd guessers are claiming that Mr. Blair leans to neither. Mr. Carson, the last man to enter the field, is a "rising young lawyer," and the fact that he lives in Rush county is a strong inducement. A Rush county candidate would please Mr. Blair beyond doubt, and the less experience the candidate the greater the pleasure, especially to the gang in this city, who are always looking out for bright young fellows whom they can control. Mr. Cheney is entitled to the position, unquestionably, and while he is too good a Democrat to squeal if he loses, there are many personal friends who will not feel that sense of obligation.

The class lined up for the nomination for Representative comprises a quintette from all walks of life—a sort of mixed pickle lot—with Winterburg troubling the Shelbyville dewy eve.

But the real fight of the year is on the prosecutor, and in the end Mr. Brown will compel obedience no matter who shall be sacrificed. And right here is a good place to stick a Morrison pin!

On Thursday evening July 21, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Smiley of near Glenwood celebrated their thirtieth wedding anniversary. The house was beautiful with decorations of green and white and the yard was radiant with Japanese lanterns. The guests were received at the door by the daughter Miss Ruby and Miss Nelle Lindsay of Bloomington.

In the same parlor, where occurred the wedding thirty years before stood the receiving line which consisted of the bride and bridegroom, the bridesmaid, Mrs. Jennie Johnson of Knightstown and all those who attended the wedding on July 21, 1880.
